FOREWORD

To the casual spectator Andrew Warde is an impressive looking, modern edifice surrounded by broad expanses of land. To the more enlightened observer, Warde represents a new concept of secondary school organization, that of the House Plan. To the student body, however, Andrew Warde represents many different things. To some it means the lively debates in history classes; to others it is the opportunity to study foreign cultures or to learn vocational skills. To some it is the drudgery of homework and the grind of quizzes and to others it is the frantic rushing before a publication deadline. To some it is the exhilaration of participating in athletic contests, while to others it means the enjoyment of cheering team efforts.

But to ALL of us Warde is more than just a building, more than just a plan, more than academics and more than athletics. It is rather a combination of these aspects which together form the true, complex PORTRAIT OF ANDREW WARDE.

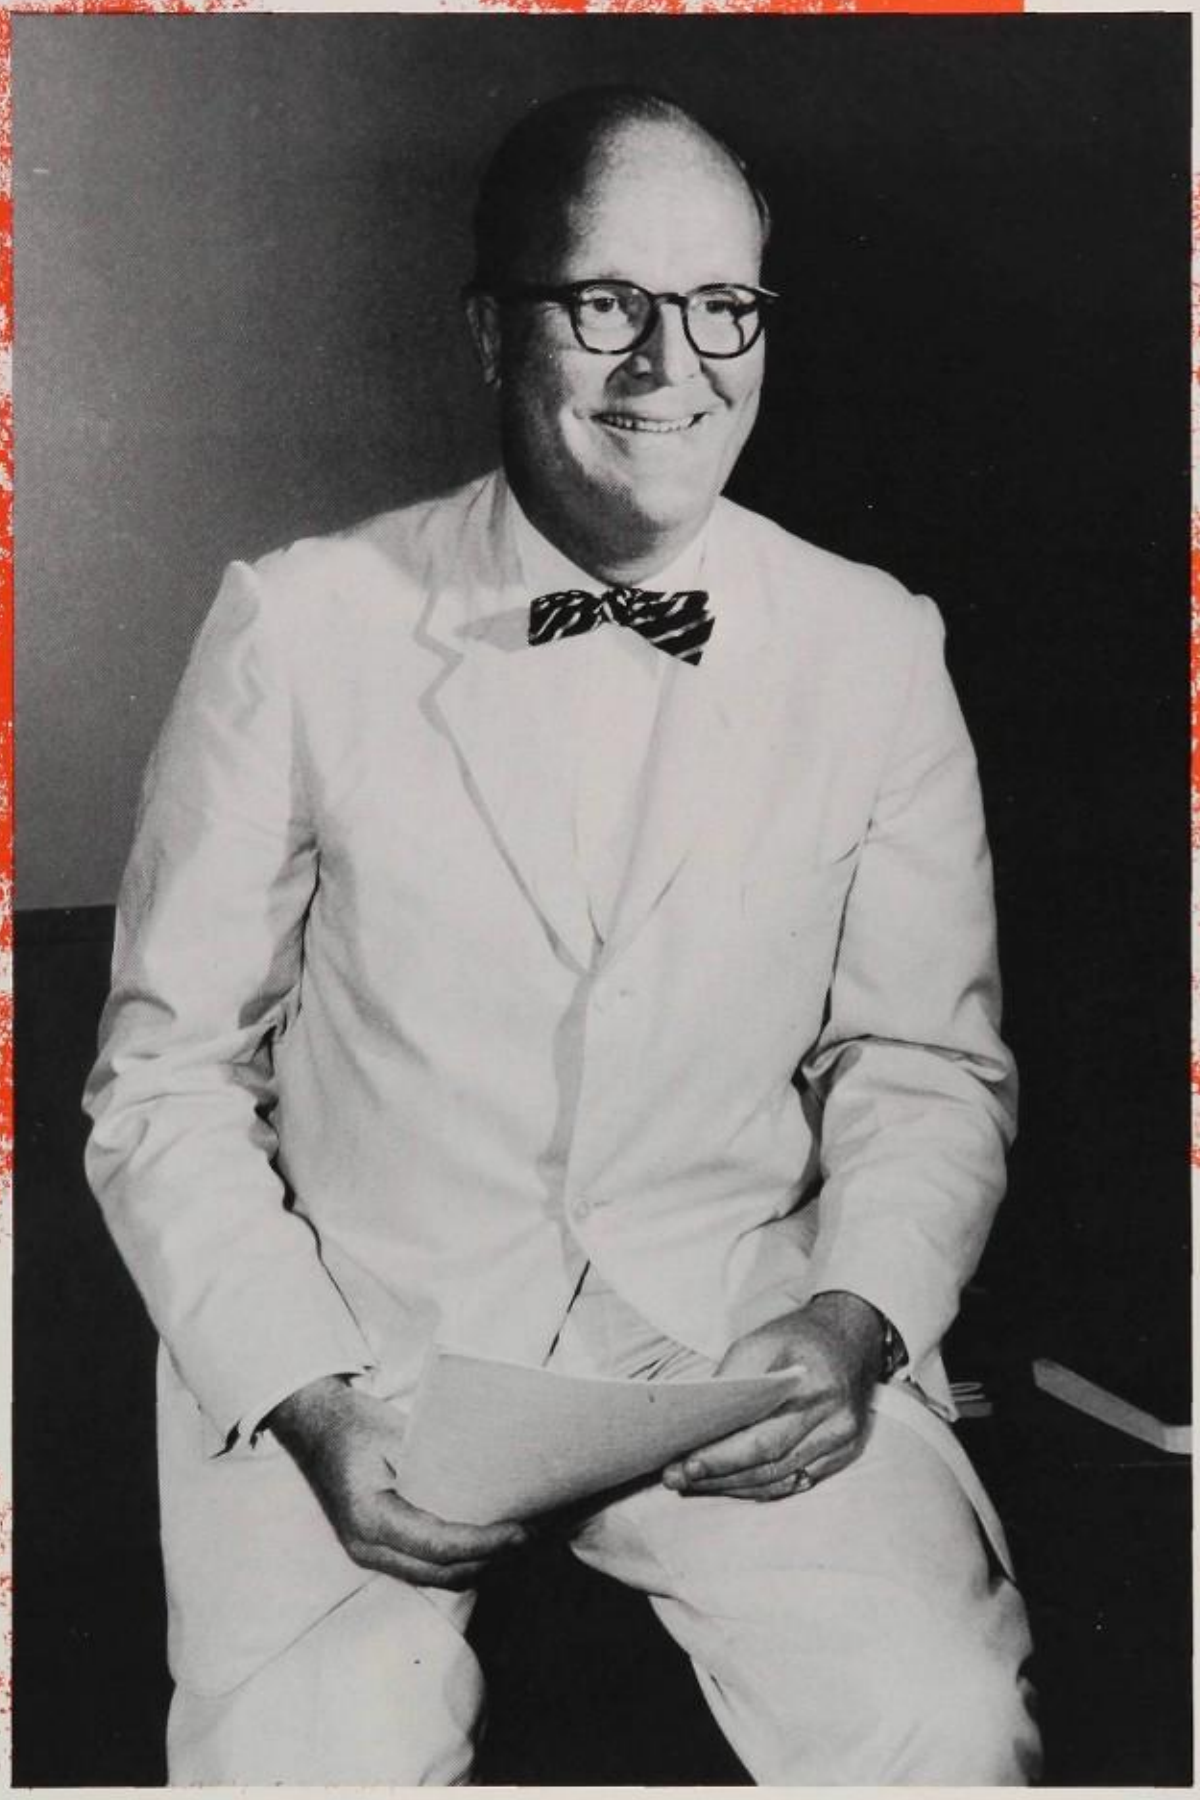
DEDICATION



Though structurally and functionally independent of one another, the four houses of Andrew Warde are united in their loyalty to you, a man who is closely associated with all of them. You are . . . . . .

. . . a man whose ability enables you to maintain both the dignity your office requires and also a personal relationship with the students

. . . a man whose democratic policies make an outstanding contribution to school ideals

. . . a man whose genuine interest in school activities makes you popular with the student body

. . . a man whose evident pride in the past and present accomplishments of Andrew Warde equals your confidence in its vast potential. Just as you are proud of Andrew Warde so are we proud to have you as our Headmaster. As a token of our esteem, we dedicate this yearbook to you, MR. KENNETH PETERSEN.

KENNETH R. PETERSEN, Headmaster

In Connecticut during the early part of the seventeenth century, Andrew Warde was a prominent name because it identified a distinguished personality of the colony. Before moving to Fairfield where he was a leader in the municipal affairs of the community, Mr. Warde served for a year as one of the six governors of Connecticut and then as a judge in the first legislative body of the colony.

Today almost three hundred years since the death of this notable civic leader, the name of Andrew Warde is again important, for the high school which bears it represents a new concept in secondary school education — that of the House Plan. Accordingly, Andrew Warde High School is divided into four separate houses — each containing a cross-section of the student body, faculty members, guidance counselors, and administrative housemasters. Through the intimate student-faculty relationship which this division produces, an atmosphere conducive to learning develops as the student spends most of his four years within one house, working with the same group of teachers. However, for the balance of his educational program he leaves his house to share with students from other houses the excellent physical facilities, such as the auditorium and laboratories. Yet the benefits of the House Plan are not limited to the academic programs of the high school, since the House Plan also enables the student to participate in a wide range of extra-curricular activities — some of which operate with his own house while others are organized on a school-wide basis.

Under this House Plan each student at Andrew Warde retains his individuality as he would in a small school and at the same time profits from the excellent physical facilities, extensive extra-curricular activities and academic programs of the large high school.

Redding, Connecticut was the birthplace of Joel Barlow, poet, statesman, and philosopher. As a poet he wrote an epic poem about America and compiled a book of verse; as a philosopher, he developed several theories which influenced the French Revolution; as a statesman, he not only was appointed United States consul at Algiers, but also was invited to negotiate a commercial treaty with Napoleon. Barlow died in Poland while on this mission.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Smith and the leadership of their officers, Gail Cleary, President; George Halsey, Vice-President; Judy Wettenstein, Secretary; and Myrna Pollack, Treasurer, Barlow House Council achieved its goal of providing interesting and worthwhile activities for the students of Barlow. These included assistance in the Eagle's Nest Drive and creation of House decorations. Spirit within Barlow also improved because of the Council's hard work and conscientious efforts.

Barlow House Dramatics, under the leadership of President Larry Windsor, Vice-President Ellen Bernstein, and advised by Miss Falkowski, had a threefold purpose. Members of this group learned the fundamentals of acting and also were given the opportunity to practice their talents in productions for the student body of the House. It also served as a springboard from which deserving students were able to attain membership in the schoolwide dramatic groups.

HOUSE ADMINISTRATION helps create final portrait

English-born John Mason was one of the first settlers of Dorchester, Connecticut. He also helped establish colonies at Windsor and Norwich. He attained distinction as the leader of an expedition against the hostile Pequot Indians and was consequently made commander of the entire military force of Connecticut. Mason was also active in the civic affairs of the colony, serving as a judge in the colonial court and later as deputy governor, a position which he held until his death in 1672.

The members of Mason House Council were divided into committees with specific responsibilities. However, some of the responsibilities — for example, a Christmas party planned for the children at the Kennedy Center — were executed with the assistance of the entire council. Miss Collimore, advisor of the group, assisted the officers Carol Brown, Cody Kuckenbecker, and Nancy Nathman who co-ordinated the activities of all the committees in order to make Mason Council an effective student government body.

The activities of Mason House Dramatics during the past year were many and varied. The group adopted a pin which the members could acquire upon earning a specific number of points. They also went on a field trip to local playhouses and presented a play for the students of Mason entitled The Battle of the Budget. The club, advised by Miss Anderson, was under the capable leadership of officers Jackie Lipnick, President; Jody Feld, Vice-President; and Sharon Vasas, Secretary.

HOUSE ADMINISTRATION important section of portrait

Samuel Smedley led a bold, adventurous life. When he was only twenty-two, he was commissioned on a ship which was defending the coastline of Connecticut against British attack. Upon the death of the captain, the able Smedley acquired the vacated position. As captain, he led his ship in many successful encounters against the British, capturing six vessels before his own boat finally struck a reef and sank. In 1779 his home was burned by the British troops, but the Smedley family escaped and built a new home on the Old Post Road. After his retirement from the colonial navy, he was made collector for the Port of Fairfield, a post which he held for twenty-three years.

In addition to executing conscientously the routine House chores such as bulletin board maintenance and honor study organization, Smedley House Council led by Mike Kundrath, President; Jody Locke, Vice-President; Gaby Bolten, Secretary; Bill House, Treasurer; and advised by Miss MacKenzie, spent a busy year determining the service potential and practicability of an affilation with a foreign school.

Advised by Miss Benders, Bev Luciani, President; Carolyn Weintraub, Vice-President; and Joan Lear, Secretary directed Smedley House Dramatics in a yearlong study of dramatic skills and theater basics. The culmination of their efforts was the presentation of excerpts from Anne Frank and Death in the Family, by means of a readers' theater which eliminates costumes and sets.

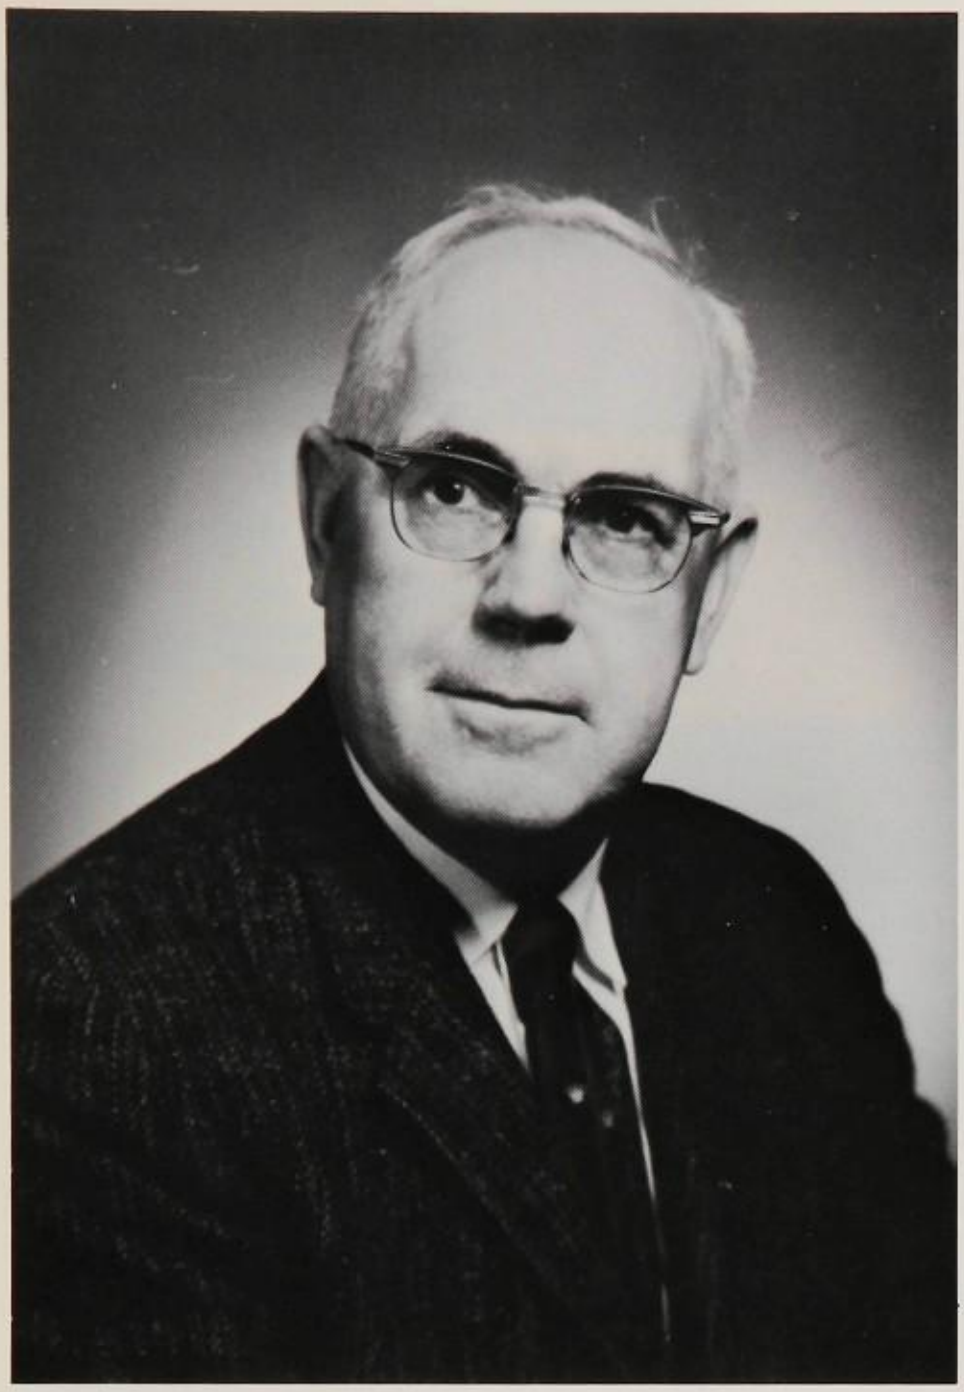
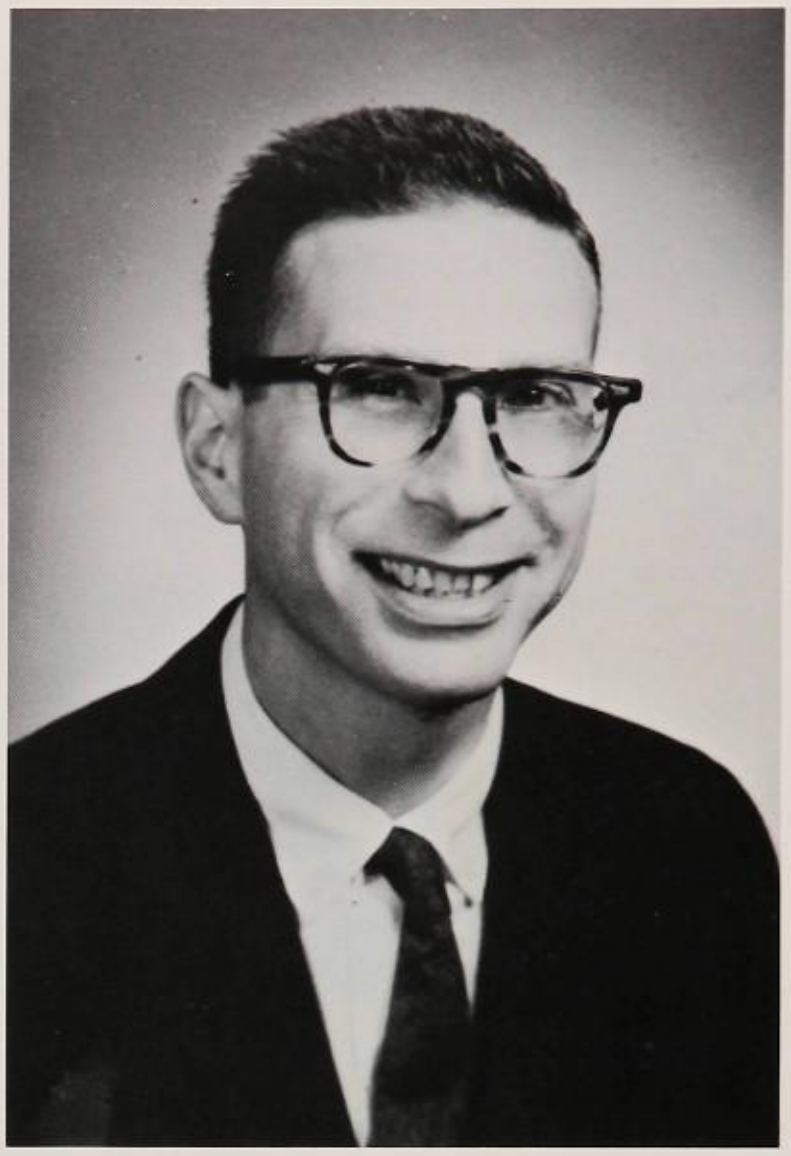
OLIVER WOLCOTT



ROBERT A. BARROWS, Administrative Housemaster



ARNOLD M. WILE, Guidance Housemaster

Portrait affected by activitiy of HOUSE ADMINISTRATION

Scholarly Yale Graduate, Oliver Wolcott has a long list of achievements accredited to him. Although he studied to be a doctor, he gave up his medical practice in order to become the first Sheriff of Litchfield County. After serving in this capacity for twenty years, he became Brigadier General in the Revolutionary Army and was also appointed to John Q. Adams' Committee of Safety. In 1775, as a member of the Continental Congress, he signed the Declaration of Independence. After the war he resigned from Congress to serve as Lieutenant Governor and then Governor of Connecticut.

Rothbard.

Headed by Jerry Kuroghlian, President; Dottie Santino, Vice-President; Joan Bansak, Secretary; Bob Ryan, Treasurer and advised by Mrs. Geldman, Wolcott House Council combined service to the House, the School, and the community. Their financing of a house project through sports program sales, their arranging the dinner at the inter-school council banquet, their sponsoring a traditional Thanksgiving charity drive, and their giving of Christmas and year-end parties exemplify their successes in these areas.

Dorothy Ferenzy, President; Nancy Barcheski, Vice-President; Marlene Savin, Secretary; and Marilyn Bien, Treasurer were elected to lead Wolcott Dramatics through the past season. Throughout the year the members, advised by Mrs. Saur, exerted themselves to improve their acting ability and dramatic understanding. The result of this work was the successful presentation of a one-act comedy entitled Husband for Breakfast which was given at an assembly for Wolcott and Barlow.

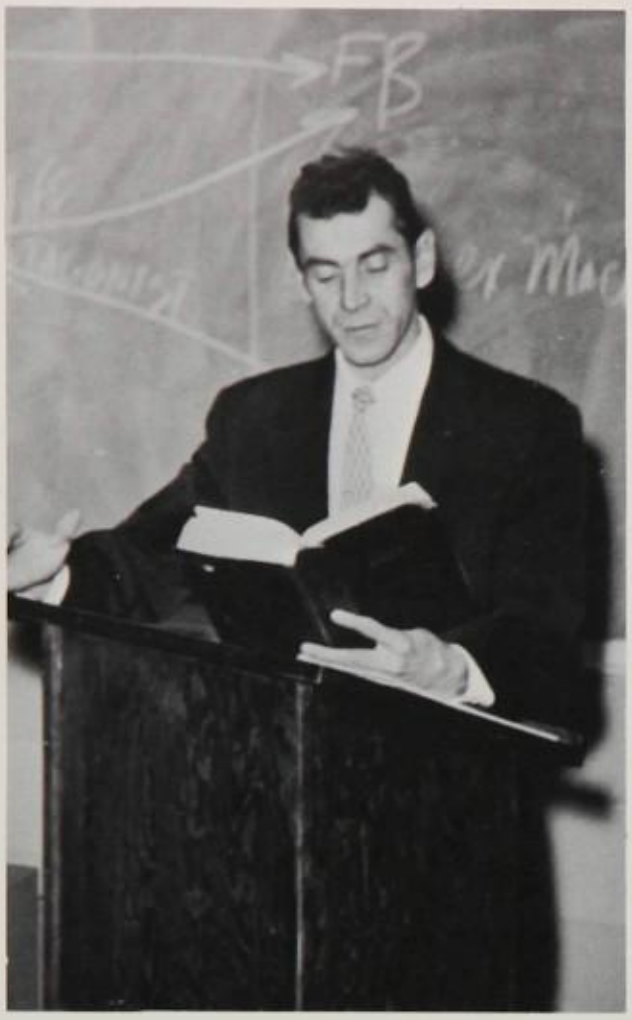
ACADEMIC LIFE

ENGLISH



". . . and the baby bear said, 'Somebody's been eating my porridge, too!" reads Mr. Bell to his advanced senior English class.

"Is this a dagger I see before my eyes?"—No. Mr. Harrity, it's a pencil.

The objectives of the English Department during the past year were threefold—to instill in the student a firm knowledge of the fundamentals of English grammar, to increase his ability to write clearly and effectively, and to acquaint him with the outstanding literary accomplishments of the language.

There are four regular English courses in each house so that the student need not leave his own house for this class. However, there is one related program which is offered only in Barlow. This is the Speech course in which students develop and practice articulate oral expression.

Out of the mouths of students come pearls of wisdom, as illustrated by Bill Koleszar in Mrs. Busch's speech class.

MATHEMATICS

Theorem: Mr. Launer's Geometry classes learn much with the help of plastic geometric shapes.

Mr. MacNamara's mathematical mind makes math mean more.

Because Mathematics, called the language of the scientists, plays such an important part in the curriculum of each student at Warde, he can take this subject without leaving his house. Courses ranging from general mathematics to calculus afford ample opportunities for either general instruction or advanced studies. In addition, students wishing to pursue a career in nursing may obtain instruction in the specific application of mathematics to this field. Seniors with exceptional aptitude for math participate in the Advanced Placement Program in which college algebra, calculus, and analytic geometry are studied. In many of the advanced courses this year, classes were conducted informally, independent work was emphasized and repetitious drilling was minimized.

Mr. Washburn stimulates the mathematical potential of his students.

SOCIAL STUDIES

"Propaganda now and then never hurt the best of men," explains Miss Mussler.

"Now class, this is the last time I'm going to tell you where Russia is!" exclaims Miss MacKenzie.

Through an intensive four-year program the Social Studies department helps to acquaint students with struggles and traditions of the individuals and groups which contributed to the development of the American civilization. This is the second year in which the new ninth grade curriculum has been in operation. Students in this course review community problems and begin a study of our western heritage. A program providing the groundwork for tenth grade history which concentrates on Western, Soviet, and Arab worlds. Advanced juniors and seniors studying U. S. History benefit from the new approach which Miss MacKenzie substitutes for the conventional history course. By studying the original documents of major political issues in American History the students learn about the ideas which influenced the formation of our history.

Problems of American Democracy get a real work-out in Mr. Bateson's P.A.D. class.

LANGUAGES

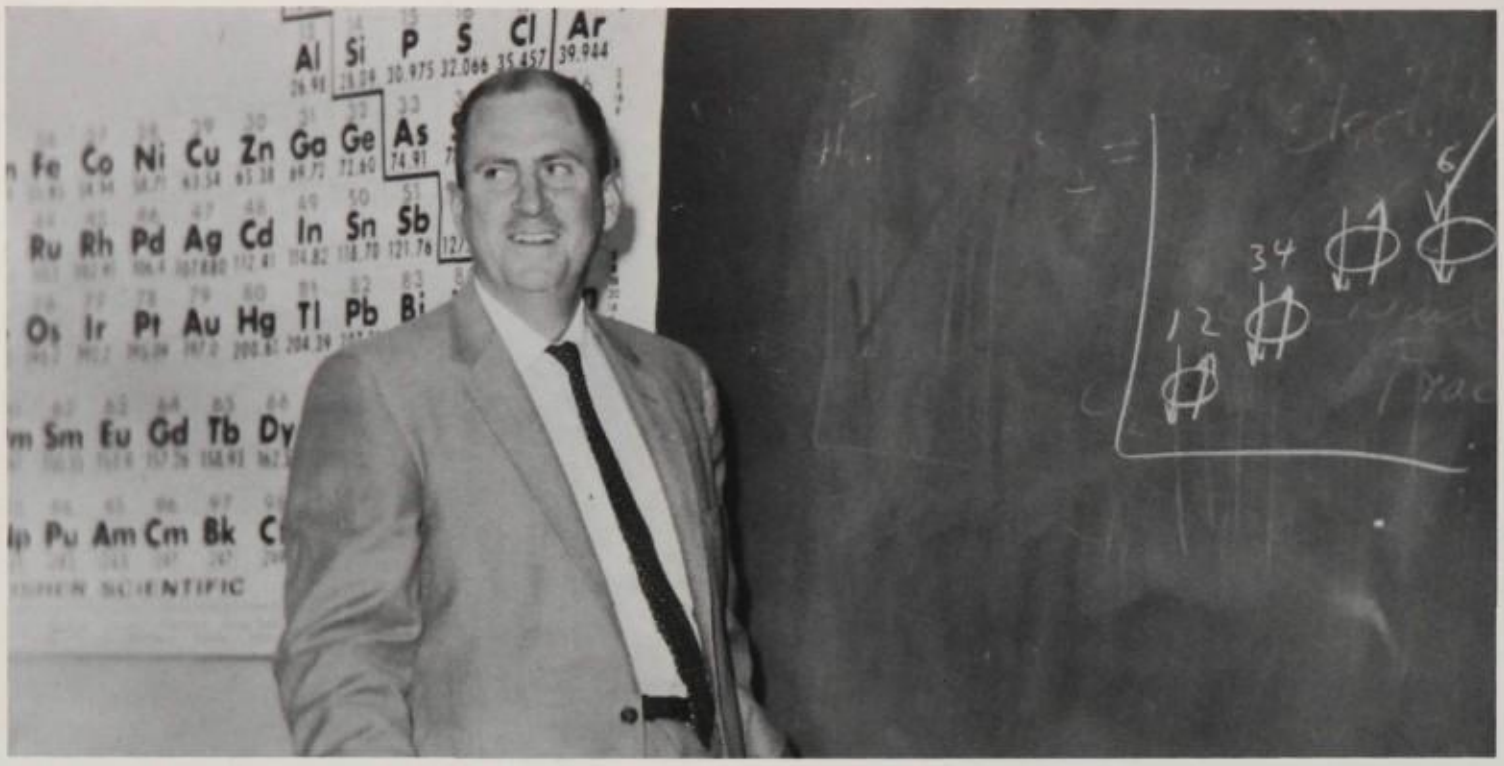
Mrs. Moore adds flavor to her German classes with ingredients straight from Germany.

"Buenos dias, my honest little seniors and seniorites," recites Mr. Garcia.

Because we are living in an age of rapid international communication, knowledge of a foreign language is often both desirable and necessary. Students at Andrew Warde receive instruction in any of the five foreign languages offered by the language department. Those studying the modern languages of French, Spanish, German, or Russian not only learn to speak, read, and write the language but also become acquainted with the geography and culture of the country. Students studying Latin translate myths, study Caesar's account of the Gallic Wars, and read Cicero's orations. Latin enthusiasts gain an understanding of the history, religion, people, and customs of ancient Rome.

Monsieur Krofssik enseigne sa classe de francaise.

SCIENCE



Mr. Magee's Physics class receives its assignment: "In the interest of scientific research we will all copy today's bulletin."

In addition to the conventional courses in Chemistry, Biology, Physics, and General Science, Andrew Warde's Science department has incorporated two new developments into its curriculum. Interested and capable freshmen may participate in the Science Survey Forum which encompasses basic concepts of chemistry, physics, biology, and earth science. The other innovation was the establishment of a team teaching program for sophomore biology students. This course, instructed by three teachers and designed to add variety and depth to the study of biology, consists of lectures, laboratory sessions, and recitation and reading periods.

"While we're on the subject, do you think we stand a chance for the football championship?" asks Mrs. Swanton to Natalie Kleban as Dennis Kulish looks on.

BUSINESS and HOME EC.

"You say he put his feet on the back of your chair and when you stood up you heard a r-rip?" asks Mrs. Marshall of Joyce Lasky.

Students in the business curriculum are given the opportunity to study basic financial and economic problems, the nature of contracts, and efficient clerical procedures. As a result of this technical training and vocational experience, business students are able to obtain good secretarial positions upon graduation.

The Home Economics department offers future homemakers the opportunity to learn basic sewing, cooking, and nutrition skills in addition to solutions to consumer problems and the management of an income.

Mr. Stone conducts his typing class and prepares these girls for jobs as future secretaries.

MUSIC and ART

"Learn to Draw" with Mr. Clarke, the Jon Gnagy of Andrew Warde.

Andrew Warde's active Music department enables students to investigate and utilize their musical interests and abilities. Those interested in vocal music may belong either to the Cadet Choir, Concert Choir, and or to the Choraleers, while those having a preference for instrumental music have the opportunity to belong to the orchestra or the band.

The largest undertaking of the combined Art classes this year was the construction of two mosaic murals—the first a semi-permanent paper for the faculty cafeteria, and the second a standard mural constructed in Holland Hill School.

Miss Burgstaller has a panacea for all ills—sing!

HEALTH and PHYS. ED.

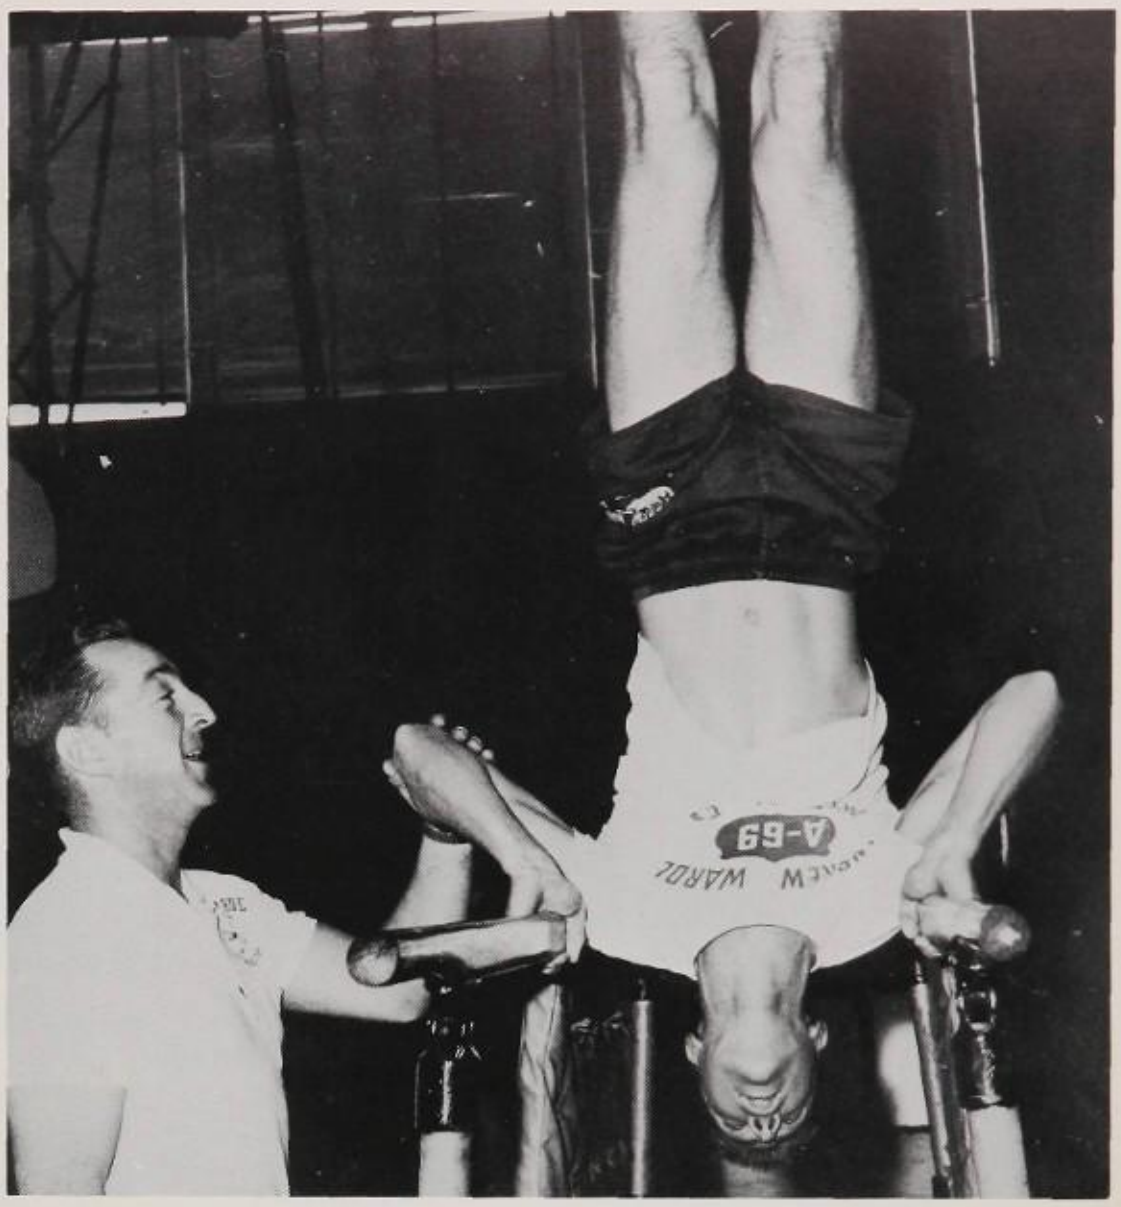
Mrs. Harris, our school nurse, calmly remarks, "It's only 107 degrees, Joey—you can return to class now!"



"Hey! Tuck your shirt in—school rules" exclaims Coach Jackson to Ron Broderick.

While other departments at Andrew Warde stress the improvement of the students' mind, the Health and Physical Education departments strive to develop and maintain the physical fitness of the students. Students are able to develop healthy bodies while at the same time they acquire playing ability in a variety of sports.

This year, in conjunction with the national program to measure the fitness of youth, all gym classes participated in strenuous physical fitness tests. The groans which accompanied the tests and aching muscles which resulted were sufficient testimony of the student body's mediocre fitness.

Meryl Winer and Linda Nelson lived through the Physical Fitness tests this fall—did you?

GUIDANCE and E.S.T.P.

For those who are scientifically inclined, E.S.T.P. meets on Tuesday nights—Here Mr. Oliver demonstrates for the group.

The Tuesday night E.S.T.P. program was well under way with Mr. Michael Sommers as the speaker.

The successful Engineer-Scientist-Teacher Program was designed to give the students with high ability insight beyond the standard science course. Intensive courses are offered in Biology, Chemistry, Electrical Engineering, Physics, Math, Earth Science, and Astrophysics.

Each year the Andrew Warde student takes many aptitude, achievement, and vocational tests, but he does not become just a list of figures on a profile sheet. To the members of the guidance staff each student is an individual who must be directed into a course of study which will best serve him after he has finished school.

A little guidance helps lead us through the maze of high schoolas proven by Mr. Condren to Joel Brauner.

READING and LIBRARY

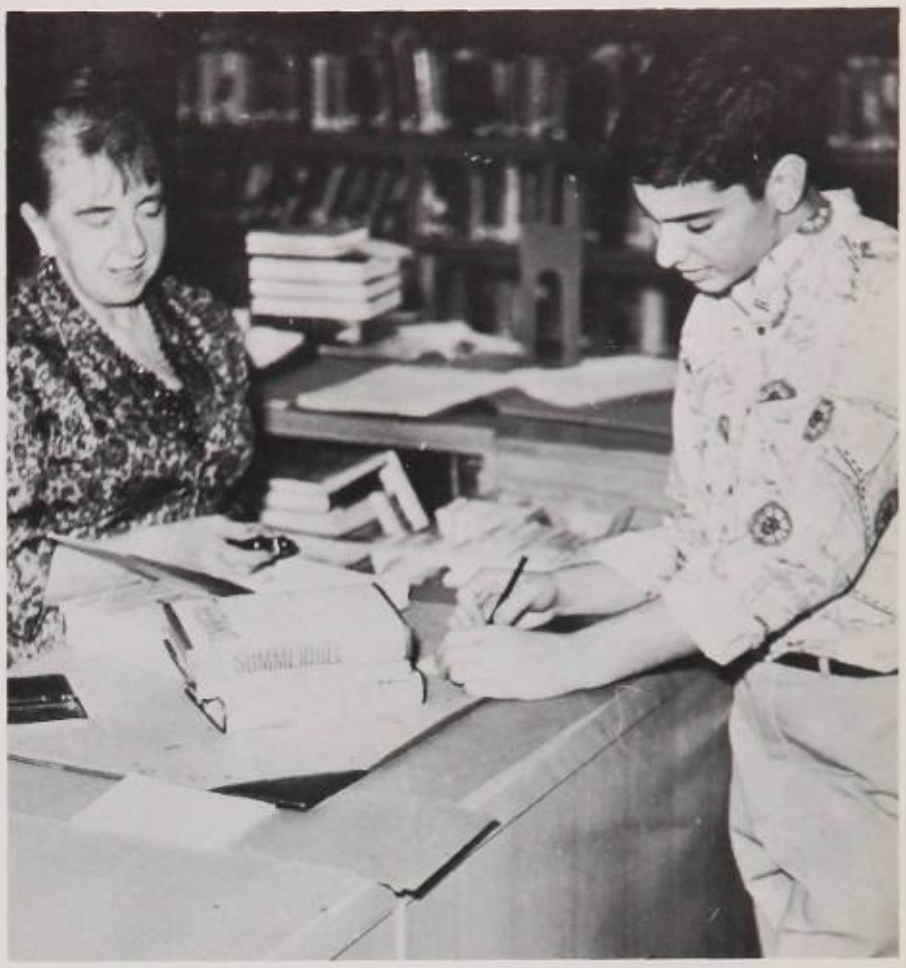
Rose Brustein catches up on her reading at the Hi-Lighter Book Fair in the Library Conference Room.



"Let's see . . . Jeff Rome, you owe $87 on your book How to Save Money," says Mrs. Landauer, our library clerk.

Because skillful reading plays so vital a part in academic studies, Andrew Warde offers a course in reading whereby students can acquire a rapid rate of reading while improving their comprehension with the aid of such practical facilities as the trachistoscope which increases eyespan and speed of perception and the controlled reader which improves rate of comprehension.

Whether accumulating data for a history paper, seeking information about a vocation, or merely perusing the shelves for an exciting novel, most students find it necessary to make frequent use of the school library, a large, functional, well-stocked room, staffed by three helpful, friendly librarians who assist students in a multitude of ways. In addition to these trained librarians, those girls interested in careers in library work work as library aides after being taught the necessary fundamentals.

With the aide of a modern Reading kit, Mrs. Bennett increases the reading speeds of Jan Hawarth and Ronnie Bansak.

IND. ARTS and ADJUSTED CURR.

Mr. Guerra explains the budget to a class participating in the Adjusted Curriculum Program at Warde.

This year the Industrial Arts department augmented its standard program with a new system in order to better prepare the students for responsible positions in modern trades. This "pyramid plan" enables the boys to take a variety of courses, including Electronics and Graphic Arts. After surveying these fields, he is able to choose an area of concentration in his junior year and prepare for a career in the chosen area.

The students in the Adjusted Curriculum class participate in a functional program in preparation for a vocation. This year a work experience program has been developed through the co-operation of the Fairfield Rotary Club. Six students graduate from the Adjusted Curriculum class this year.

Advanced machinery helps students in the Industrial Arts department reach perfection.

Safety precautions are employed by the Industrial Arts department with goggles and aprons for the students.

Without the untiring labor of our service staffs, Andrew Warde would lack its remarkably immaculate surroundings, and the student body would undoubtedly miss the nourishment of well-balanced, and appetizing lunches. This year in addition to their regular maintenance duties, several custodians, on their own time, assisted seniors in their preparation for the Senior Ball.

SPORTS

"Will the boy on the bottom move a few feet to the left, please?"

Andrew Warde is fortunate in having a unique system, the house plan, under which students become better acquainted with one another and form closer relationships with the faculty. The house plan also enables students from Barlow, Mason, Smedley, and Wolcott to form teams and compete against one another in such inter-house sports as basketball, badminton, tennis, volleyball, ping pong, and baseball. These intramural activities give students who are not on varsity teams the opportunity to compete with other teams and to exercise their athletic abilities.

Warde's 4-5 record is not indicative of the fine team Warde had this year and will have next year. The team had a very tough schedule, including Ludlowe, the state champions. In that game, the Warde defenders held Ludlowe to 14 points, their lowest total for the year. Senior players John Szobota and Bill Koleszar led Warde's stalwart defense. Lettermen who will return next year as outstanding defensive players will include co-captains Larry Mischik and Wayne Wood.

This year the soccer team had a very successful season. With the excellent coaching of Mr. Haugh and Mr. Vanghele, the team compiled a fine record. After defeating Roger Ludlowe in two games, Warde received a trophy given by the Swedish-American Society. Seniors who helped the team win this award were Co-Captains Don Bennett and Bob Morrison, Jerry Regenstreif, Andy Bowman, Dave Mendelson, and Barry Bersch. Next year's team is very promising. With Co-Captains Kent Englander and Bob Ryan and other players such as Paul Schubert and Rod MacCuaig, Warde can look forward to another fine season.

Andrew Warde's cross country team, coached by Mr. Gauding, is hoping for a better season next fall. Joel Launer, Co-Captain for next year's squad, proved to be the second best runner in Fairfield when the team met Fairfield Prep and Roger Ludlowe in a tri-meet. He will be on next year's squad with other promising runners such as Co-Captain Eddie Amarant, George Amarant, Bill Brener, and Al Jasko helping Warde to a much better season.

Under the expert direction of Coach Don Feeley, the cagers scored seven wins out of seventeen games, including a major upset over the Staples Wreckers.

Offensively and defensively the team was led by Captain Lee Demarest, who averaged 13.9 points per game and 14 rebounds per game, Wayne Gower, who averaged 12.3 points per game, and Bob Ryan, who was a defensive ace and playmaker. Hank Bahe supplied some clutch shooting while Demarest also broke the school rebounding record.

Because of lack of experience and height, Warde used a number of full messes, which caused opponents many problems, and a man-to-man defense. The defense, accompanied by mnay offense players, kept opponents' margins of victory very small.

Warde's 1962 racqueteers not only improved the second place finish they had in the state tournament last year, but fine players Warren Bloom, state doubles champion, and Captain Bob Maynes brought Warde to the top in state championships.

This season the Brooklawn Country Club, Warde's home links, trimmed its greens for the best of downstate opposition as Coach Stone prepared his golf team for another winning season. Bill House, Bill Donnelly, and Steve Pfeif were among the best players.

Co-captains Bill Ard and Peter Curtis, along with track veterans and new recruits, strove to combine the ability of the hare with the determination of the tortoise. The team's strength lay in the running department, where many fine sprinters did well in practice sessions.

The team bowed only to Staples, Ludlowe, and New Canaan in close, hard-fought games. Under the excellent coaching of Miss Mary Carley and Miss Helen Carroll, the varsity sticksters learned fine sportsmanship and teamwork as the season progressed. The season's 2-3-1 record indicates sure success for next year's varsity sticksters.

The J.V. team, headed by Captains Noel Everlith and Sue Van Stone, also ended its season with a 2-3-1 record. These anxious, high-spirited J.V.ers will be major factors in the success of Warde's future varsity teams.

This year, led by Madelyn Swanson and Mary Jane Szymansky, the thirteen members of the girls' varsity basketball team fought their way to a 3-5 record, including one win over Ludlowe. Skillfully employing the extra dribble now allowed in girls' basketball, the five seniors and eight juniors on the team practiced many hours to overcome their lack of experience and height. The pageantry and fun of the football and basketball games this year were greatly increased by Andrew Warde's team of nine cheerleaders. Clad in crimson and white uniforms, these girls urged our teams on to victory with fight cheers, clap cheers, and screams of joy. The jobs of a cheerleader are many: practicing long hours to perfect jumps, coordination, and arm motions and remembering the names of the players in the line-up. Laryngitis, pulled muscles, torn ligaments, and assorted bumps and bruises helped the cheerleaders achieve a unique distinction during the football season—they had more injuries than the boys on the team.

Neither the presence of rain nor the absence of batons kept our majorettes from leading the band onto the football field. Dressed in crimson and white uniforms, the majorettes perfected intricate dance patterns designed to brighten up the gloomiest weather and the gloomiest scores. This year our hardworking majorettes expanded their activities beyond the football field. They participated in pep rallies, the Fathers' Club Show, and the Memorial Day Parade.

To provide an incentive for individual leadership, to offer clean, healthful recreation, and to promote good sportsmanship are the purposes of the Girls' Athletic Association, an organization for all girls who are interested in group sports activities. This year's calendar, planned with great care by Phyllis Malmberg, President, was highlighted by many events: a freshman orientation program, an active intramural schedule, an Alumni Basketball game, and an inter-school playday. The G.A.A. presented awards and chose the "Outstanding Athlete of the Year" plaque. Among the most active of the G.A.A. members were the girls who had won the sweater and letter for participation in a variety of sports and twenty accumulated points—the girls of the "W" Club.

ACTIVITIES

SCHOOL COUNCIL

The Executive Committee of School Council consists of these five serious and hard-working officers: G. Berson, Corresponding Sec.; J. Kiselstein, Recording Sec.; T. Ryan, President; K. McKenzie, Treasurer; and F. Mendelson, Vice President.

School Council is a representative and legislative body consisting of two sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors from each house. A freshman member from each house is elected at the beginning of the second semester. In order to allow closer relationship between the house councils, a go-between with voting powers on each council is also elected from each house. There are four voting faculty members, one from each house, and an adviser chosen by the Headmaster.

School Council makes and enforces school laws and is responsible for many student privileges. Through its committees and commissions it manages extra-curricular activities and helps to promote school spirit.

Council members and volunteers comprise the branches of council, the committees and commissions.

The Assembly Commission provides the student body with both educational and cultural assemblies. Each year the Exchange Commission raises money to sponsor a foreign student on the A.F.S. Program. This year Bodil Vind from Denmark was Warde's exchange student. The Eagle's Nest is responsible for running the annual drive for community charities, while the Club, Handbook, and Election Commissions are responsible respectively for the promotion of clubs, preparation of the student handbook, and the management of school-wide elections.

The Canteen Committee sponsors informal, social gatherings for Wardites, in addition to co-ordinating all such functions sponsored by other school organizations. The Social Committee plans the social calendar and aids any school organization when requested. The Service Committee provides transportation to games away from school and manages the sales of New York and area newspapers in school. Other organizations which serve the student body are the Public Relations Committee, responsible for the radio program and advertisement of school activities; Citizenship Committee, responsible for maintaining the good reputation of Andrew Warde through the promotion of good citizenship; Constitution Committee; Hospitality Committee; Snack Bar Committee; and School Store Committee.

With the co-operation of the administration and the support of the students and faculty, the School Council is able to furnish activities which provide an opportunity for participation of all students, instill a conscious meaning of democracy and citizenship, permit free expression of both students and faculty, promote the general welfare of the student body, and serve the community.

BODIL

"You know that 100 foot drop in the snow that I was telling you about before? Well . . ."

"Don't look now, Janice, but I just dropped a dish!"

Dear Teachers and Friends of Andrew Warde,

When I first came to Andrew Warde I was confused—confused and afraid. I had come from a school with only five hundred pupils and now I suddenly found myself in one with sixteen hundred. All around me I heard a strange language; everywhere I looked I only saw strange faces and I wondered if I could ever be able to communicate and make friends with anybody here.

But I soon understood, however, that even though your language, your habits and your way of dressing are different from what I was used to, you are basically exactly like the kids of the same age in my country.

It is impossible for me to get a chance to talk to every single one of you, but I want to use this opportunity to thank you for all the kindness you have shown me. Thank you for every smile and friendly "hello" that has helped to make my first experience here easier and the whole year a very happy one.

Yours sincerely,

Bodil

To qualify for membership in the Thespian Honor Society, a student must have accumulated one hundred hours in school-wide dramatic productions. As stated in the charter, the purpose of this national organization is "to further excellence in dramatics in the secondary schools."

The Komians are a stepping stone to membership in the Thespian Society because only fifty hours of work in drama are required.

This year the Komians, backed by the Fathers' Club, produced Warde's first musical, Guys and Dolls, and the Thespians presented Arsenic and Old Lace.

A meeting of the minds results in a meeting of the deadlines.

Because the House Plan by which Andrew Warde is organized is a unique idea in high school organization, we decided to incorporate it into the 1962 Flame. With this intention in mind, we divided the faculty, senior, and underclassmen sections into houses. However, this is not the only innovation which the yearbook represents, for its size has been significantly enlarged. Because we concluded that the increased dimensions would ennable us to present a more vivid and complete pictorial record of the school year, we felt our work would not be in vain. Today you are seeing the results of our labors, misgivings, and hopes—a book which we hope will forever brilliantly illuminate your memories of events at Andrew Warde.

Friendship, An Asset Or . . .

By PETER J. HARRITY

To the average teenager, having friends is vitally important. However, because of the nature of friendship and the mobility of our society, it is ironic to see how " fleeting" some teenage friendships can be. It is also discouraging to see the price some teenagers are paying because of a false sense of loyalty.

Can you name five youngsters, excluding your siblings and cousins, who were your closest friends ten years ago?

Are they your closest friends today?

The answer is probably NO.

You should not infer that you do not have close friends, for you still have a nucleus of five to ten close friends. But they are not the same persons who were your closest friends five to ten years ago.

If these former closest friends no longer have an immediate relationship with you, is it safe to assume that they no longer directly affect your day to day actions and activities? Yet you can not deny, and I hope that you will not want to deny, that these friends did directly influence your daily decisions five or ten years ago. Therefore, you are living, indirectly, the effect of their friendship today. If your former friends recognize the value of education, then chances are that you did also.

So does it not also follow that if you "goofed" with your friends five years ago, you probably are goofing with your present friends today? You go along with the guys or the gals because of a false sense of loyalty.

Just as your friends of 1951 are not your closest friends in 1961, so, too, your friends in 1961 will not be your closest friends in 1971.

The reasons for this situation are similar to the previous explanation, but they need further development. The changes in your friendships will be necessitated by changes in further schooling (technical, business, and academic); by changes in residence (occupational and military transfers); by changes in your interests; and by changes in your marital status. (Yes, fellows, in ten years hence you will be about twenty-five, and by that time, whether you will admit to such folly now, you will most likely be married.)

I trust that some of you have accepted the development of these observations up to now. Then since in ten years you will not be close friends with the same friends of today, why are you letting your friends of today, because of your false sense of loyalty, prevent you from getting the most out of your education today? Why are you letting guys or gals with whom you will not be closely acquainted five or ten years from now keep you from getting the most out of your classes?

Are you going to continue to let your "fleeting" friends of today be a liability in your preparation today, for your life ten, twenty, or thirty years from now?

Town Teenagers Commended By Personnel Representatives Upon Superior Workmanship

By TONY HRBEK

On the basis of infrequent newspaper reports many adults are prone to condemn teenagers for their irresponsibility and lack of purpose. This condemnation is not unanimous. The businessmen of Bridgeport express their faith in today's youth by hiring teenagers to work in their stores and factories. In an effort to ascertain whether or not teenagers were fulfilling the trust given to them by their employers, we spoke to the personnel managers of two Bridgeport stores, Howlands and Sears Roebuck.

In reply to our question about the efficiency of teenage workers, Mrs. Dube, the personnel manager of Howlands, said: "In business age does not matter, but it is the amount of work put into a job that will determine its final outcome." She illustrated her remark with the story of a young girl who began work at Howland's last December. By hard work and determination the girl recently became manager of two departments.

The personnel managers of both stores agreed that the answer to a question concerning the relative merits of boy and girl employees depended on the job. Miss Mitchell of Sears Roebuck said: "A boy in a stockroom seems to have more sense of duty and more to work for. He tackles his job with a good sense of workmanship." Mrs. Dube replied: "A salesgirl, especially as a teenager, can be forced to handle every type of situation — store-wise, public-wise, and otherwise. She usually faces everything in a level-headed manner."

The personnel managers of both stores had many words of praise for the behavior of their teenage employees. They said that the teenagers they had hired were polite, industrious, and quite willing to work overtime or on extra days if the need arose. Friends of the teenagers did not create problems because, for the most part, the teenagers themselves discouraged their friends from visiting during working hours. Many students managed to do homework during coffee breaks and dinner hours.

Mrs. Dube summarized her opinion of working teenagers: "A teenager is really unique and to be admired if he can do both his school work and his job. The need for these youngsters will never diminish because as we grow old we need their fresh, young ideas, and we have to train them to replace us someday. This pattern will likely never change, for it is the young blood that is truly the backbone of our organization."

Warde Loses An Old Friend; Mrs. Potts Leaves For Britain

By JOAN LURIA

After five years of work and service as Smedley House Aide, Mrs. Alice Potts is leaving Andrew Warde and the United States for a new home in England. On November 3rd, Mrs. Potts issued her last tardy slip, dispensed her last band-aid and safety pin, and gave her last kind words of encouragement to Smedley students.

Mr. and Mrs. Potts will live in Exeter, a town in southern England. Their new house, which they purchased on a trip to England last summer, has palm trees and a view of the moors. Mrs. Potts plans to spend her days enjoying the English scenery and lounging on a nearby beach.

In reply to a question about what she would miss the most, Mrs. Potts said, "The kids." The converse of this statement is also true. The students of Smedley House will certainly miss Mrs. Potts. Good luck!

Bodil Vind, Exchange Pupil, Cherishes Her Family Life

By CONNIE HOFFMAN

Bodil Vind, a Danish exchange student to Andrew Warde, was confronted with the perplexing question: "If you had one thing you could bring from Denmark to show Americans, what would you like to bring? In other words, of what aspect of Danish life are you most proud?"

Bodil, quickly trying to recall all those things she takes for granted in Denmark, but which she does not see here, replied that Americans do not seem to have enough time for some of the "unimportant" phases of life —enjoying learning at school, talking with adults, being together as a family. If Bodil could, she would like to show us life in Denmark.

"Just about everyone likes school where I live," proudly states Bodil. Her reason for this seemingly incredible statement is that in Denmark her friends "have more time for friendships; they are not so interested in getting 'A's and 'B's." (This enjoying of school and not working solely for grades must be effective, though, for Bodil is learned and speaks English fluently).

Bodil also thinks that American teenagers miss a great deal by not associating more with adults. Whether or not this segregation is due to the fact that "adults have little time for teenagers or teenagers have no time for adults" she has not yet decided. Her belief is that it is just as interesting, if not more so, to speak with older people than always to limit oneself to contemporaries, all with the same ideas and experiences. She feels that being able to be at ease with adults also helps a teenager to mature faster.

"We sit two or three hours after a meal and just talk," says Bodil sincerely. She cherishes her family life. She talks with her mother while they prepare dinner and sometimes takes long walks with her father. "Often my whole family, even my sister, who is twenty, and her boyfriend, go to a lake on an afternoon."

Bodil's gift to us, then, would be for us to see her native way of life—to be a part of a world which S.A.T.'s, V.A.A., and P.T.A.'s have not yet invaded. If going to Denmark sounds slightly remote, Bodil describes her country vividly and graciously here. She is a girl from whom all of us can learn; her ideas sound good.

Committee Plans Novel Programs For Assemblies

By LINDA VARALJAY

The Assembly Commission plays a very important part in the student activity life at Andrew Warde. Its advisers are Miss Margaret Stokesbury, chairman, Messrs. Frank Ambrose, Peter Clarke, and Michael German. In order to keep the interest of the students, the officers, as well as the other members of the Assembly Commis-

Guidance Is Warde's Hub

By ARTHUR PINTO and FREDLEE ROBBINS

The Fairfield schools are fortunate in having one of the most modern guidance programs in effect today. Mr. Vincent Strout, assistant headmaster, stated that "guidance is the backbone of the school." Andrew Warde's method of individual counseling and group participation between student, teacher, and guidance counselor has proven to be a most effective way of handling problems.

Each grade level has a slightly different guidance program. The freshman year is spent, for the most part, in orientation. Getting acquainted with the school and its leaders through activities such as School Council Orientation and Freshmen Social, a football assembly by the physical education staff, and assembly programs gives the freshmen a preview of what to expect in the coming four years. Group discussions concerning college and rights and wrongs, such as cheating, help the freshmen ponder about the future.

Sophomores begin planning by taking the Kuder Interest Inventory. This indicates the students' individual interest, and from this he is aided in determining what vocation he would like to enter.

In the junior and senior years, students are guided in accomplishing these ambitions. Various interest groups such as college, business, and military acquaint the students with their respective fields. The faculty leaders explain how each person may achieve fulfillment.

Because of these programs, Mr. Arnold Wile feels that "guidance is the hub around which the rest of the school rotates."

The Warde Weekly serves not only as a means of informing students of weekly school events, but also as a publicity outlet for scholastic and extra-curricular organizations through regular features such as "Club Chatter," "Wardites in the News". "Alumni Alley cites newsworthy accomplishments of present and graduate students, while the outstanding seniors are given recognition in the "Warde Window."

Co-editors C. Hook and J. Forstrom look proudly at the result of all their work—the Warde Weekly.

All editors are equal (except some editors are more equal than others.)

Carolyn Hook and Jean Shiller assemble the Roto magazine and Warde Weekly for our enjoyment during Friday's homeroom period.

"Heaven will protect the working girl" as Judy Forstrom and Sue Solari type the stencil for the Warde Weekly.

"There must be somebody who hasn't been in the "Warde Window.' "

Warde Weekly editors operate their own press—for printing Weeklys of course!

"Won't anybody take a Roto?"

This year innovation was the key word for the staff of the Hi-Lighter, Andrew Warde's literary magazine. In addition to essays, poems, and short stories, its contents included two new features, "The Great Way" and "Lately We've Read," which are reviews of Broadway plays and recently published books. In addition to their regular tasks of typing and editing the issues, the staff this year undertook the direction of a Paperback Book Fair and an Apprenticeship Program for aspiring editors.

Sue Sheiman gives an enthusiastic pep talk to the staff.

They made it; they sold it; we bought it.

The Hi-Lighter staff spent many hours after school preparing its completely new Hi-Lighter.

Miss Walsh collaborates with Sue Sheiman, Judy Kiselstein, and Paula Alex to arrange the next edition.

"That's fine, Judy. But can't you add a little something about Scotland?"

The staff eagerly organizes its bi-annual literary magazine.

FIRST ROW: C. Hook, J. Kaufman, S. Sheiman, A. Lee, C. Hoffman, J. Kiselstein, J. Forstrom. SECOND ROW: H. Lang, L. Meshken, J. Luria, A. Descheneaux, N. Silverstone, S. Savell, E. Lippman. THIRD ROW: J. Yasser, P. Alex, R. Brustein, M. L. Leask, B. Grotts, P. Malmberg. FOURTH ROW: M. Josephson, S. Solari, J. North, K. Wrable, J. Brauner.

Election to Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists, is reserved for the outstanding staff members and editors of Warde's four publications who demonstrate leadership, high scholarship, journalistic achievement and loyalty.

Juniors and Seniors exhibiting scholarship, leadership, service, and character are eligible for election to and lifetime membership in the Andrew Warde Chapter of the National Honor Society. Besides planning an impressive induction for new members, the society offered tutoring services, and joined the Mothers' Club in sponsoring the annual Alumni Tea.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

SPANISH CLUB

FIRST ROW: Mrs. Geldman, A. Spano, P. Ginoni, B. Hermann. SECOND ROW: C. McCue, L. Stoffan, G. Jenkins, K. Ostroske, L. Frank. THIRD ROW: B. Grotts.

The French and Spanish Clubs were formed to bring interested students closer to an understanding of the background and culture of the languages. The Spanish Club visited New York to study Spanish culture in museums and art galleries. Members of the French Club put on, annually, a play in French for the benefit of interested students.

Mrs. Geldman takes her Spanish Club members on a first-hand tour through the Spanish countries of the world.

FRENCH CLUB

FIRST ROW: C. Hoffman, E. Amarant, Vice-President, J. Gross, Secretary, W. Major, Treasurer, B. Glantz. SECOND ROW: T. Beck, S. Mendelson, J. Locke, J. Winslow, D. Thurston, S. Christensen, C. RUSSIAN and GERMAN

RUSSIAN CLUB

FIRST ROW: C. Margitay, President, N. Michailovsky, Adviser, E. Lippman, Vice-President, S. Dvorski, Secretary-Treasurer. SECOND ROW: J. Macy J. Kuroghlian, D. German, J. Locke. MISSING: E. Eisenberg, T. Szost, N. Silverstone.

The purpose of the German and Russian Clubs is to encourage students to improve their command of the languages and to promote an interest in German and Russian cultures. This is accomplished through films, newsreels, and other programs of a social and cultural nature.

The German Club started off its meetings with the well-known German expression of "Skol!"

GERMAN CLUB

FIRST ROW: T. Robson, A. Ray, R. Morrison, K. Terifary, C. Longo, A. Jurman, A. Jasko, E. Ray, M. Shumofsky, C. Ray. SECOND ROW: L. Belovich, R. Leffel, B. Carbone, R. Wenten, B. Plotkin, K. CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club provides the opportunity for a student to meet others interested in playing this ancient but by no means old-fashioned game. In addition to the games at school, the top five men in the club competed in inter-school games.

The forensic abilities of many students at Warde have been exhibited in the Debate Club. Aimed at advancing its members' abilities in public speaking, the club brought credit to Andrew Warde, while debators gained invaluable experience from inter-school debates.

The Chess Club saw many good games played among these "thinkers."

DEBATE CLUB

WORLD AFFAIRS and U.N.

UNITED NATIONS CLUB

FIRST ROW: G. Karmason, Secretary, G. Halsey, President, Mr. Vanghele, Adviser, P. Chamberlain, Vice-President, P. Colonnese, Treasurer. SECOND ROW: J. Wettenstein, S. Turk, R. Aliberti, P. Elliott, J. Stiller, H. Lang, M. August, J. Friedman. THIRD ROW: L. Rothbard, M. Leask, S. Moore, N. Rudolph, D. Bennet, R. Raven. FOURTH ROW: B. Bersch, D. MacQuarrie, B. Vind.

The United Nations Club serves to promote an understanding of the people who comprise other nations. Featured programs included a talk by Mr. Vanghele about his life before coming to the United States and a trip to the U.N. building.

The purpose of the World Affairs Club is to analyze and discuss international affairs. Discussions in the past year ranged from an examination of the Berlin crisis to the problem of fallout shelters.

Khrushchev's ideas aren't so original; he got one of them from Bill Ard at a meeting of the World Affairs Club.

WORLD AFFAIRS CLUB

FIRST ROW: D. Brown, B. Ard, S. Gross, K. Caldana, V. Glazer, T. Ringelheim, P. Ressler. SECOND ROW: M. Kaplan, B. Danberg, A. Frankel, A. Pinto, R. Hoffman. THIRD ROW: D. Baris, R. Rung, B. Lipnick, T. Wilson, R. Valtine, B. Tashman, B. Majkut.

FIRST ROW: J. Aldinger, President, M. B. Kemp, Vice-President, M. Grega, Secretary, J. Buda, Treasurer. SECOND ROW: J. Engstrom, A. Canning, P. Ginoni, G. Miller.

The High School Red Cross is a service organization which engages in community and international activities during the school year. This year the members of the Red Cross sponsored a successful second-hand book drive. Three hundred and twenty paperbacks were collected and sent to the New London Submarine Base for distribution among our servicemen.

The purpose of the Future Nurses of America is to provide an organization for girls interested in nursing, enabling them to explore the opportunities and requirements of this field. During the past year the members discussed the opportunities open to nurses in the armed forces and public health.

F.N.A.

FIRST ROW: G. Miller, President, Mrs. Harris, R.N., P. Mallyns, Treasurer. SECOND ROW: J. Shamatovic, J. Clayton, C. Cole, C. Carter, E. Posa, K. Molnar, G. Wynn. THIRD ROW: B. Tanner, J. Engstrom, K. Petitti, Z. Ficko, E. Stefan, L. Sullivan. FOURTH ROW: L. Brown, P. Hobson, L. Remetta, G. Ibbs, K. Musomte, M. Grega, C. Halle.

AVIATION and SKI

AVIATION CLUB

FIRST ROW: J. Kowats, B. Perlstein, J. Martin, S. Rosenberg, R. Amaro. SECOND ROW: M. Lavigne, C. Stram, R. Horvath, R. Jackson, R. Callanan, Mr. Volpe, Adviser. THIRD ROW: J. Jurgielewiez, D. Chotkowski, Civil Air Patrol Representative, R. Buturla, J. Eastwood, R. Giddings.

Sponsored by the Fairfield Cadet Squadron, the Aviation Club teaches interested members about aviation and its opportunities. The members were provided with limited flying instructions with the aid of the Civil Air Patrol.

Through lectures and films on the techniques of skiing, the newly-organized Ski Club helps interested students to get acquainted with this winter sport. The highlight of the club's activities was a weekend of skiing at Mohawk Mountain in northwestern Connecticut.

"O.K. . . . Which one of you forgot the batteries?" The Aviation Club seems to have a problem.

SKI CLUB

FIRST ROW: G. Lieberthal, B. Ponnelly, N. Karter, J. Lyhne, B. Delevett. SECOND ROW: Mrs. Winship, A. Bear, President, S. Pfeif, Vice-President, D. Allison, Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Haugh, R. Winter. PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

FIRST ROW: Đ. Perras, R. Losch, Vice-President, J. Brauner, President. SECOND ROW: C. Cebulski, C. Barcolomeo, R. Feldman, T. Graham, Secretary-Treasurer. THIRD ROW: B. Danberg, R. Peipher.

Good luck in the future in whatever you do. Love ya Donna Winnick

CHEMISTRY CLUB

FIRST ROW: R. Anderson, Mrs. Swanton, M. Scilian. SECOND ROW: M. Olschan, R. Pettijohn. MISSING: P. Armstrong.

The Photography Club serves the school by photographing pictures for school publications and by contributing pictures for the publicity of school events.

The Chemistry Club offers students the opportunity of learning about Chemistry beyond the regular classroom program. This year the members conducted experiments demonstrating principles learned in class.

Members of the Art Club display their own versatility by learning to use lettering pens and ink, by making a mosaic mural, and by working with clay and paints.

ART CLUB

FIRST ROW: R. McCue, D. Pinto, President, C. Kowalonek, N. Domorod, P. Bodzon, K. Vineberg, D. Winnick, E. Priest, J. Szoke, E. Turoczi. SECOND ROW: J. Danberg, Secretary, M. Stefanko, L. Jackson, M. FOURTH ROW: B. Furgeson, V. Rogers, P. Ardell, K. Furedy, B. Peckar, L. VonBurg, N. Zwecker, S. Penny, C. Szost.

The Sylvia N. Johnson Chapter of the Future Teachers of America enables students to explore their own interests in the teaching profession and observe the qualities and aptitudes required of a successful teacher. Major activities include student observation week, which gives its members the opportunity to observe elementary school classes in session.

F.T.A. FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES

FIRST ROW: B. Parker, J. Olsen, J. Mihocko, G. Chzasz, D. Schwanhausser, L. Tripoli. SECOND ROW: K. Moran, N. Goodfellow, M. Carameta, P. Jordano, K. Weintraub, P. Darvas, D. Zalinger, R. RADIO and STAGE CREW

RADIO CLUB

The Andrew Warde Amateur Radio Society was created in the spring of 1961 to promote interest in radio, to establish a student-operated radio station, and to enable members to work toward their radio operator's licenses. This year's program included field trips, films, and lessons in technical radio skills given by qualified club members.

Members of the Stage Crew and Club spend long hours performing the technical duties necessary for any stage production. In addition to providing lights and special effects, the Stage Crew also designs all the sets and props.

STAGE CREW

FIRST ROW: S. Markoja, M. L. Lepine, T. Murphy, President, L. Nelson, J. Kuroghlian, J. Szoke, S. Hercun. SECOND ROW: D. Winnick, K. Weintraub, S. Forger, C. Carter, R. Kuroghlian, C. Weissman, J. STUDENT LIFE

FRESHMEN Look

"First we get acquainted at Freshman Orientation."

"Finally, we accept the responsibility of being Wardites."

"What are you so happy about—you're entering not leaving."

"Gradually, we become accustomed to our new surroundings."

"Let me in, wee-o-o-o."

The freshman year is a transition period from grammar school to high school. In this one year the freshmen are introduced to the diversified and multi-phased activities at Warde.

SOPHOMORES Seek

The Sophomore Class officers Bill Donnelly, President; Vincent Gilligan, Treasurer; Judy Gold, Secretary; and Bob Fulton, Vice President helped make '62 a great year.

The Sophomore Dance was a great success, thanks to these hard-working seven.

After a year of observing school communities, three hundred and fifty students were ready to form a community of their own—the Sophomore Class. Just as the sophomores enjoyed and contributed to school-wide functions, Warde enjoyed and supported the Sophomore Dance, "Hawaiian Holiday."

Just a little more potassium chlorate and we'll have this poster finished.

Pat Mikacionis was chosen queen of the "Hawaiian Holiday."

Here we see a well-known Sophomore ceremonial observance: the burning of the books.

AMBASSADOR EDDIE

"Pardon me but I have an itch!"

On February 16th and 17th crowds seated themselves in the Warde auditorium, fastened their imaginary seat belts, and prepared to take a good-will tour with Private Eddie Moyer, Captain Vanette, Mayor Morton, and Lt. Bloomer and her U.S.O. troupe. The passengers on this flight seemed to enjoy their trip tremendously, but even more elated over its success was the hard-working crew.

The Fashion Show was a great success this year—oops, wrong caption!

"We're seniors born, and seniors bred; and when we die we're seniors dead."

"Sue—eee!"

". . . and me without my glasses!"

JUNIORS Probe

President John Zofcak, Secretary Judy Gross, Treasurer Donna DiMeo, and Vice-President Dave Johnson.

"Just remember—this gun will be covering you all the time so don't make a move."

"How 'bout waiting 'til the ball is thrown before jumping!"

"La Vie en Rose," "prom," "June 1," and "fun" are all synonymous, in the minds of Wardites, with "Junior Class." But the prom was only the climax of a year filled with stacks of bookcovers, hours of meetings, and miles of pink crepe paper—a year of work and play, co-operation and adjustments, growth and learning and achievement for the class of '63.

PROM COMMITTEE
SEATED: D. Edenfield, C. Preston, M. Shumofsky, G. Miller, J. Gross, D. Johnson, B. George.
STANDING: Mrs. Gay, Miss Walsh, J. Davies, C. Vlantes, G. Lieberthal, D. Gamin, Mr. Bradley.

The junior year is the licence year—for a car, that is!

SENIORS Discover

Sharon Kessler, Secretary, Cary Fleisher, Vice-President, Elaine Borona, Treasurer, and Bill Koleszar, President.

Joanne Harris, John Medeiros, Sally Buxton, and Bodil Vind participated in the American Field Service Program this year at Warde.

Under the dynamic leadership of its officers, the Senior Class enjoyed a successful year highlighted by the memorable "Frostasia" Ball and culminated with a beautiful graduation in which the seniors wore caps and gowns. In addition to the officers, several other seniors brought honor to the class through their noteworthy achievement.

Joanne Harris was the recipient of the award presented by the Connecticut Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to the senior girl who best personifies outstanding leadership.

Jonathan Kantrowitz qualified as a finalist in the National Merit Qualifying Test, while Susan Hadden and Peter Rawson received certificates of recommendation.

Lastly, several Wardites, as finalists in the American Field Service Program, were given the opportunity to spend time abroad. Joanne Harris and John Medeiros, participating in the Winter Program, lived in Sweden and Italy respectively; and under the Summer Program Sally Buxton lived in Turkey.

Senior Ball committee chairmen worked diligently to make "Frostasia" a big success.

Jon Kantrowitz added prestige to his class by being a finalist in the National Merit Qualifying Test.

Nancy Parker, Joanne Harris, and Rosalie Kirschblum were eligible for the D.A.R. award. Joanne was the winner.

DAFFY DISTINCTIONS

SPORTS FEATURES

"Who fixed the deck? I've got six kings."

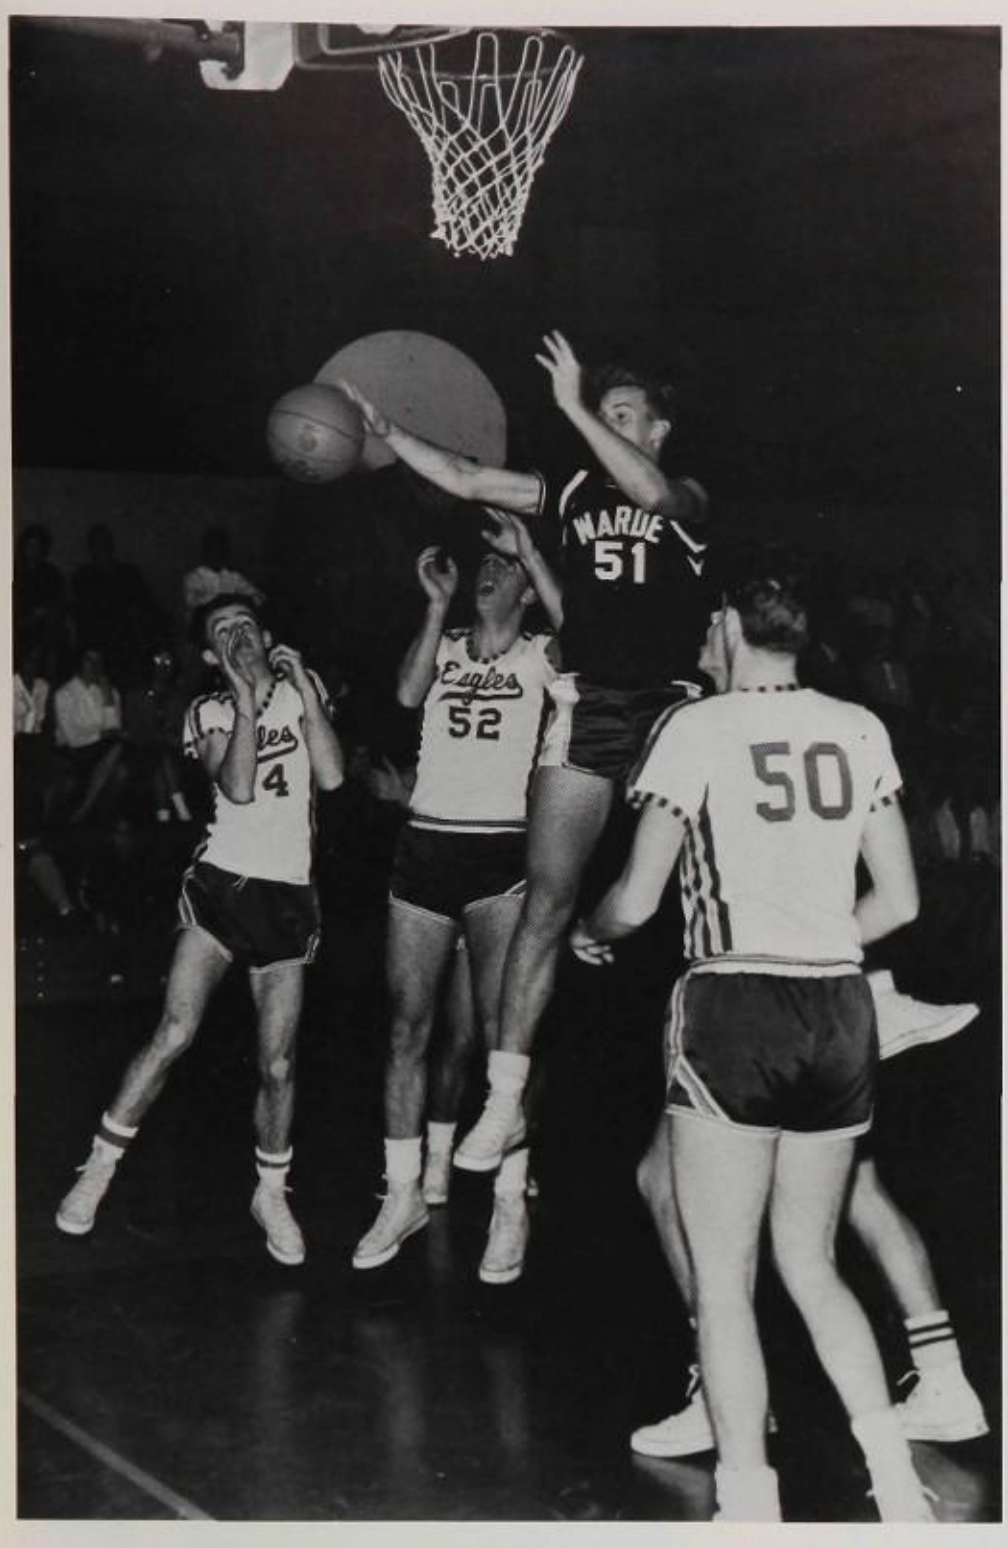
"Don't let him fool you. It's really a new 'twist' step."

The students attending this year's Student-Faculty basketball game had the usual opportunity to see junior boys cheering their teachers and teachers outdoing their pupils. The student handicap was the fact that junior varsity, rather than varsity players, participated. The faculty had difficulty in that they were well—the faculty! But, like rare cheese, had improved with age.

"Whada ya say we change after the game for the masquerade party."

SPOTLIGHT FUN

The first annual Alumni basketball game was held on December 29, 1961. Members of the alumni team included graduates of 1960 and 1961. A spirited game, with divided loyalties among Warde's upperclassmen, ended in an overtime victory for Warde's varsity. The canteen following the game gave many a long-awaited opportunity to renew old acquaintances.



"You're dribbling awfully high!"

"If I could only get pass that black line and shout 'All-ee all-ee in free."

"I've got it!" "No—I've got it!" "No—I've got it!"

June 1962

This 1962 Flame symbolizes the unified efforts of innumerable people. In addition to the capable editorial staff, I am especially grateful to the faculty who graciously permitted class schedules to be interrupted for picture taking; to Mr. William Hawthorne, the representative from the publishing firm of O'Toole & Sons whose advice in paper make-up and type choice was invaluable; to the photographers from Delma Studios who turned our realities into vivid pictures; to Mr. Frederick Bormann whose ideas inspired us toward Flame innovations and whose candy treats satisfied our five o'clock hunger pains; to Mr. Peter Clarke from whom we continually sought aesthetic advice and assistance; to Mrs. Mary Lessing who spent many long hours checking copy for grammatical errors; and to Mr. Donald Stone for his untiring counsel in advertising and management.

I would also like to thank our patrons and advertisers without whose aid it would have been impossible to publish this book.

On behalf of the editorial staff, I thank you all and hope that the pages of this yearbook reflect our sincere appreciation.

To Judy
To a real sweet kid with a wonderful personality. Always remember the fun we had in Topping. Stay as sweet as you are now and keep smilen.
Stay Cool
Love Ya

Judi,
To a great friend
I'll always be friends with. Don't forget the fun we had at the L.P. and other places. HA HA.
Don't ever hurt
George, he's a sweet
kid. I'll see you
this summer. OK.
I hope. If you don't run away with someone G? and get
———. Just kidding.
Love ya
